

Learn it. Solve it. Never get stuck.

Welcome to Thimble Harbor, a small New England town with one ferry, one lighthouse, and far too many opinions about pie. Retired puzzle editor Ada Quill needs an apprentice, and she will teach you everything, one clue at a time.

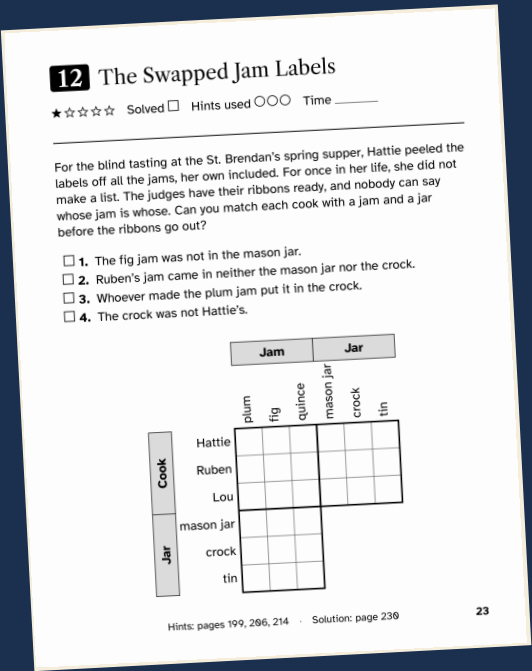

Start with swapped jam labels and a goat in the pie tent. Finish with the Light-house Affair: five linked cases and one final question. Who took the town's beloved Keeper's Lamp?

Six friendly lessons with pictures of the grid, step by step.

A three-step hint ladder for every puzzle, so you take only the help you need.

Every solution explained in plain words, not just the answer.

Large 16-point print, big grids, and room to write.

Every puzzle was checked by computer to have exactly one solution.
